Market research consists of testing the market to determine the acceptance of a particular product or service, especially amongst different demographics. It will establish which portion of the population will or does purchase a product, based on age, gender, location, income level and many other variables. Market research allows companies to learn more about past and current experience and potential customers, including their specific likes and dislikes. People places and things are constantly changing.

Market research also helps companies develop information regarding new products or product lines and learn how well new items will be received. It can also help businesses learn how the public responds to a comparable product already on the market. In this way, business can stay in the loop, keeping in touch with the wants and needs of potential consumers. They can halt production of a product that the public shows little or no interest in, or change it, improve it, or lower the price as necessary based on market research information. There are many companies out there. They can't do it alone. They need your help!

You will be a volunteer giving your impressions of a product or service online, by phone, mail or in person. Such as: Sampling Foods, Snacks, Soft Drinks, Colognes, toothpastes and giving public opinions. You will be compensated for your time and effort and welcome to come back at anytime in the near future.
